Subject: Microsoft Settlement

The settlement with Microsoft is not nearly adequate. They are being allowed to continue with their monopolistic practices. At the VERY least they should be required to separate their browser from the operating system.

While I don't necessarily agree with a breakup of the company, I do feel that the current administration has decided to be way too easy. The separating of operating system from user programs is a minimum they should be required to do. Please stand up against MS and their anti-competitive behavior.
